

10 Steps to Having a Family Time

Kirk Weaver, Family Time

1. See the importance of having a Family Time at your house and set the time.
2. Make a written commitment that you are going to have it on a daily basis.
(See commitment form below)
3. Make sure each member of your household is reading the same verses for their "Personal Time" each day.
4. Realize that Satan doesn't like it and he will do all he can to stop you.
5. If you miss a day, don't give up. Just ask God to help you be faithful.
6. Make sure that each family member is making a practical application each day.
7. Make sure each person has an opportunity to share and is encouraged to do so.
8. Ask for prayer requests for themselves, their friends, your family, your church, your missionaries, your government, etc.
9. Pick a verse each week to memorize and say it to each other.
10. Try to share something you have learned each day with someone outside your family.

FAMILY TIME COMMITMENT FORM

Realizing the importance of having a Family Time at our house each day, I promise that with God's help I will do all within my power to have a set time and place to make this happen. I will come each day prepared to share a thought the writer has given in my Quiet-Time passage and a personal application I am making in my own life. I will also come prepared to share prayer requests and pray for the needs of others in my family. God hold me to it!
