

OUR KIDS AND ELECTRONIC GAMES

Eden Communications / Films for Christ

Guide to Games

Christian Spotlight's Guide to Games exists to assist gamers and parents in making wise decisions in their choice of electronic games. Many games contain objectionable material, behavior and attitudes. Although some game companies provide a simple rating system, it is not based on a Christian worldview.

<http://guide2games.org/>

This INTERACTIVE site provides reviews of all types of computer games for all platforms (PC, Mac, PlayStation, etc.), PLUS an active forum for gamers to share their opinions. You can participate by writing reviews and sharing your knowledge to help others. This site is a nonprofit ministry and is not connected with any game producing companies or advertisers.

What They Play is all about videogames, and it's for parents just like you. We'll help you understand everything you need to know about the games your kids want to play, and bring you friendly, helpful, unbiased information about the content and the experiences that videogames provide.

<http://www.whattheyplay.com/welcome/?orgpage=%2F>

Entertainment Software Rating Board

The ESRB is a non-profit, self-regulatory body that independently assigns ratings, enforces advertising guidelines, and helps ensure responsible online privacy practices for the interactive entertainment software industry.

<http://www.esrb.org/index-js.jsp>

Information and Articles for Parents

Family Group Lists Ten Video Games Kids Should Avoid

<http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,315162,00.html?sPage=fnc.scitech/videogaming>

Company Plans TV-Related Interactive Cell Phone Games

<http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,188482,00.html?sPage=fnc.scitech/videogaming>

Parents Warned About 'Pornographic Violence' of 'Manhunt 2' Video Game

<http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,306421,00.html?sPage=fnc.scitech/videogaming>

Study: Online Role-Playing Games Change Users' Lives

<http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,303241,00.html?sPage=fnc.scitech/videogaming>